GOVERNOR IGNORES EDICT OF PEOPLE AND SAVES THE NECKS OF MURDERERS
PHOENIX, Dec. 12.—Despite the double edict of the people at the November election in voting for capital punishment and shorning him of his power of relieving, pardoning and commuting sentences, Governor Hunt today again showed his contempt for the sovereign will when it comes in conflict with his own, by saving the necks of the murderers in Florence. As a result there will be no hanging next Saturday and wagers are being freely made that not one of the sons of Cain within the electorate decreed to death, will ever see the gallows.

The case of three of the six men to have been executed on that day were referred to the attorney general, one was referred to the supreme court, and the other two murderers were commuted to life.

Governor Hunt commuted the sentences of Charles Schaffer and William Campbell, condemned prisoners, to life imprisonment; referred the capital case of Miguel Peralta to the supreme court of the state, and transmitted the transcripts of evidence in the cases of Eduardo Perez, N. B. Chavez and Francisco Rodriguez, three of the men under death sentences, to the state's attorney general.

In each instance the supreme court or the attorney general was requested to review the testimony and render thereon an opinion. With a view to affording the supreme court and the attorney general the time necessary for reviewing the evidence in the different cases, the governor re-rieved Peralta, Perez, Chavez and Rodriguez until March 19, 1915.

As a further reason for granting these reprieves, the governor alludes to numerous protests from citizens against a general execution and made reference to the fact that should several hangings occur immediately preceding Christmas week, the spirit of the holiday season would be violated and that such a course would offend the public conscience. He stated, furthermore, that his review of the voluminous testimony relating to the different capital cases had brought to light several points of such serious import as to render advisable a consideration of the evidence by the supreme court and attorney general.

Of the seven remaining cases of the thirteen prisoners whose sentences to death were impending prior to the recent general election, when a proposal for the abolition of capital punishment failed of adoption by 1252 votes, six are on appeal to the supreme court, while one, on retrial, has had his sentence reduced from death to ten years' imprisonment.

A striking feature of Gov. Hunt's temporary disposition of the capital cases pending is the letter in which he refers to the attorney general the transcripts of testimony taken during the trials of Eduardo Perez, N. B. Chavez and Francisco Rodriguez. In this communication, the governor after making a formal request for an opinion relative to the trial proceedings and to such mitigating circumstances as may be found to surround the convictions of the prisoners referred to, points out the fact that the defendant in each instance was in some stage of intoxication, and urges the attorney general to provide all available citations from judicial opinions, defining the legal status and moral culpability of a drunken man as a potential violator of the law.

Continuing further, the governor dwells upon the inconsistency of an organized government in licensing the distribution of a harmful drug, the use of which leads to crime, and thereafter placing the entire responsibility upon a single individual offender, and exacting his life in expiation of the offense committed.

BOONE TO PEN FOR FROM ONE TO TEN YEARS
(From Friday's Daily)

Judge Smith yesterday sentenced Thomas J. Boone, of Seligman, to the penitentiary for a term of not less than one year and not more than ten years. Boone pleaded guilty day before yesterday to the crime of robbery. It was alleged in the complaint that he had, while in a state of intoxication, assaulted a Mexican named Pedro Chaves, on the streets of Seligman and robbed him of one hundred dollars. Boone has been in the county jail for some weeks. He is about forty years old and not a bad looking man. It is understood that he was caught so cold-handed in the crime that all the mitigating circumstances which he could have pleaded in case of a trial would have been that of being intoxicated. It was for this reason that his attorney advised him to plead guilty and throw himself on the mercy of the court.
